CONVENTION 2010

By the time you receive this VUD in the mail, Convention 2010 will be history. In his most recent update, Scott Fybus reported that well over 50 NRC/WTFDA members had registered. He also had prepared a schedule of events which we linked to at both wtfda.info and wtfda.org. A glance of the schedule showed a variety of activities that should satisfy everyone there. Hope you all had fun!

MEMBERS AND MORE

This month we welcome Ron Rader to the WTFDA. We don't know where Ron lives because he never said, but safe to say it's somewhere in North America. Welcome, Ron.

And here's another big WTFDA welcome to Bob Hawkins. Bob lives in Edinburg, IN. Welcome to both of you.

Renewals were received during the period of 7/14 to 8/13 from Benjamin Greenlaw (ME), Alan Michalek (MA), Robert Williams (ID), Jeff Kruszka (TX), John Hourigan (CO), Nick Lombardi (GA), Fred McCormack (MN), Gary Siegel (OH), Richard Gray (LA), Peter Giacomelli (NY), Rob Ross (ON), Bob Timmerman (IN), Richard McVicar (NY), David Braun (DE), Anders Akerlind (Sweden), John Zondlo (OK), Mike DeRoo (KS), Steve Walko (PA), Walter Patton (ON), Tommy Adair (TN), John Callarman (TX), Keith McGinnis (MA), Steve Rich (IN), Roy Barstow (MA), FJ Issard (ON), Jeff Lehmann (MA) and Dennis Park Smith (CA). Thanks everybody!

Here's a little plug from DJ Lenny Goldberg, who writes "You probably will never pick up 100 watt KSKQ via Es, not until next year's season anyway. This winter they are switching from 94.9 to 89.5 with a power raise and better antenna location. I hated losing 94.9 as a Dx frequency; it'll be nice to get it back! Meanwhile my "Cruisin" soul oldies show will be aired on Wednesday nights, 10 to midnight eastern, 7 to 9 here on the left coast. You can tune in at: www.kskq.org." Doo wah!

Richard Gray (LA) is currently involved in a major project. That project is building a Finco 400-A TV antenna. A picture of this antenna is on the left. Richard was able to find three patent numbers for this antenna and was about to tackle the construction when he found a picture of the antenna on the web. Richard writes "I am nearly finished the first half of the Finco's construction. I have to say, it is BIG! I'm sure the neighbors are going to love it!"

I'm sure your neighbors would love this thing as much as my wife would. Don't forget to send a picture of it when it's done. It would make a neat cover, and I could use some cover photos (hint, hint!).

WTFDA MEMBERS IN PRINT

Bruce Elving gives us the info. "Danny Oglethorpe has an article, (in the) August Monitoring Times, "TV DX: Better Than Ever!" occupying pp. 8-10, and mentioning the WTFDA. I think the article has been favorably alluded to in or on various e-mails in the TV-FM DX forums. I have not read all of Danny's article, but from what I have seen it is excellent.

The home page of Popular Communications mentions August as the current issue, but I have an advance copy of the September issue in which my article about HD radio occurs. My article is pp. 46-50, and includes pictures and text mentioning currently available HD radios, HD radio DXing and HD in the car. It talks about HD bullying its way past the normal FM channel to be accused of being "off channel," instead of as the industry calls it, "in-band, on-channel."

By the time the September VUD comes out, the September PopComm will be the current issue, and the August "Monitoring Times" available as a recent back issue. Some retailers, such as Radio City in Mounds View MN carry both publications, current and recent back issues, and Barnes & Noble usually has PopComm on sale, current issue."

That's about it for this issue. I hope everyone had a great time at the NRC/WTFDA Convention. I officially retire from my job at the end of August after being a copier technician since 1971. Good God! Don't know how I survived it! See you next month!

Thanks to Danny Oglethorpe for information appearing elsewhere in this column.

Note that the new LPTV stations at Cloverdale and Healdsburg, California are at the same site as the new Santa Rosa stations.

CKND-DT Winnipeg was assigned permanent DTV channel 9, same as their existing analog channel. They have however requested (and been granted) channel 40. This channel is assigned to Winnipeg but not to any particular station.

The transmitter will be on Canwest Place, as the CBC tower where CKND's analog antenna is located is full and cannot accept any more antennas.

The CRTC has granted the CBC permission to switch the programming source for their CBWST channel 8, Dauphin, Manitoba. The CBC-owned relay had been simulcasting privately-owned CKX-TV channel 5, Brandon. CKX-TV went (permanently) dark last October. CBWST will now relay the CBC's Winnipeg station CBWT channel 6. I think you can reasonably assume CBWST has already been relaying CBWT since October!

Speaking of CBC TV, the CBC has announced they will not be able to meet the DTV transition deadline next summer.

27 digital transmitters will be necessary for the CBC to go digital in major markets as required by the CRTC. However, only 15 will be active by the deadline, a year from now. The remaining 12 will be complete by the end of August, 2012. (since the 27 transmitters include both French- and English-language facilities, only 20 markets are involved.)

(Obviously the CBC has no intention of converting the 500+ transmitters that are not required to convert. The article says only 1% of Canadians live in areas served by these 500 transmitters.)

The CBC has asked the CRTC to allow analog broadcasts to continue past next August until the digital transmitters are complete. Markets where digital English transmitters will not be complete include Regina, Winnipeg, Windsor, Saint John, and Halifax; French transmitters will not be complete in the four largest Western cities.

The article doesn't say so, but a potential fix would be to carry the English- and French-language services on separate subchannels of the same transmitter.

Danny noted his local K47HO, off for months as an analog station, back on the air in digital. He says the short_channel_name in the PSIP indeed contains the call letters (as we would wish all DTV stations would do!) but the clock is five hours off.

Good DX!

With KQQX 93.3 and KLPW 101.7 off the air, I was able to pull in a few new stations on those two frequencies. The opening into northern Indiana and Illinois on July 16 allowed me to log four new NOAA Weather Radio stations and WBTU 93.3 from suburban Fort Wayne. July 18 allowed me to add another NOAA Weather Radio station; they're now using two-by-four call signs after exhausting their allotted three-by-twos (such as my local, KDO89) and three-by-threes (such as WNG728). WZ2512 is the first Kansas transmitter I heard whose programming originates from a National Weather Service office in a city other than Dodge City, Topeka or Wichita (in this case, Pleasant Hill, MO). July 19 brought several Iowa stations in; KTPR 91.1 took out semi-local WIBI, while I heard two others from the northern part of the Hawkeye State. I did pull KRLI on their new frequency through KMCR and the digital sideband from WHHL 104.1 (with the transmitter six miles north of my QTH, is not much of a problem when DX is in). KRRO 103.7 was the big surprise of the opening. The August 2 opening brought two new Indiana FM stations, both from the southern part of the state. The following morning, I logged my 150th Missouri FM station when I pulled in KAHR 96.7, as well as two new ones from Jonesboro, AR. KASU 91.9 took out both WSIU and K220HT, while KEGI 100.5 took out WSDD's digital sideband. They carry the Bob and Tom show; the language on that show is a bit crude, though. I added KAYL and KGOZ to my 101.7 log with KLPW off. 93.3 is dominated by either WJLY or WPBG with KQQX off the air, while 101.7 is either WGEL or KBKB. As of August 12, 1,078 FM stations have made it into the logbook. 73 and good DX.

The Es season pretty much died here after July 5th.

I bought a new Grundig G8 portable and was able to try it out on the 13th when Lenny called me and said Es was in. I was at work and was able to makes some logs from Arizona. The radio worked quite well and I'm very happy with it, even though I only got to try it out on one opening.

The Editor's Note

DX season has quieted down as we head toward Autumn, but there has been some tropo at times around the Great Lakes and plains. In a lot of places in the north, September is a great tropo month with paths rarely seen any other time of year. Keep an eye out for any stretches of calm, warmer weather, which can create a favorable tropo environment. For you coastal DXers, any tropical systems that come within a close proximity to the shore can cause unusual tropo also.

Tremendous reporting period with some real long haul DX. 6/18 was intense with Mexico and a new country-Honduras! Signals were quite good and lasted awhile. 6/19 had Juarez,Mx and Nicaragua relogs.
7/2 was was exciting with XHBC-3 in for 50 minutes.
XHRIO-2 seen often along with many Mexican unids, and possibly other Central/South Americans in the cci. I understand how in the late 1940's and early 1950's reports of coast to coast 2Es were common-lack of station interference. Es ended way to soon this year, but still exciting and productive.

What a letdown! Es suddenly disappeared in July like never before. From what I heard, the last good opening was on 7/4, and I was at work during 90% of it.

The return to the Lake Michigan beach vacation rental did bring that great over-the-lake trop as I had expected. One has to see it to believe it. Milwaukee stations at 215 miles are truly semi-locals, and Chicago stations at 290 not uncommon either. Low power digitals and analogs come in snow free, and distant digitals are seen with my handheld DTV kludge, with only a 9" whip antenna directly on the Zinwell box with batteries. Good as conditions were, very few new stations were logged. WYIN 17 Gary, a regular last year, was conspicuously absent.

Sadly, this is the end of the Manistique "East" log – the owner of the home is retiring, and will use the home all summer. I might be back at Indian Lake next summer (what a difference being only 2 miles inland makes).

This August is crazy – we have constant ground fog, high humidity, ungeographically hot temperatures, and no wind. Should make for good trop, but there isn't any! Not even the Cleveland stations are coming in well!

I've gotten a total of 6 digital stations in 2 years of trying. It looks like I'm failing at this. Maybe a good tropo opening, finally, in these parts will bail me out. I have not noted a trace of analog from the South this year. I am really disappointed about this. I guess I wasn't around at the right times. Last year I saw Cuba a few times.

As E-skip season wound down, tropospheric enhancement began to fire up. I got much-wanted WYZZ 28 on July 15; this was an occasional catch on analog 43 before KTVI set up their digital operation on 43. July 16 had Indiana stations all over the dial, pulling in new ones from South Bend and Indianapolis, and getting Fort Wayne for the first time on digital TV. I logged six new DTVs from Indiana, bringing the total from that state to 32, making the Hoosier State my most productive DTV state. WFWA 40 is one of the few PBS stations I've seen, other than local KETC 39, that puts PBS Kids on one of their sub-channels 24 hours a day. July 18 allowed me to pull in KIIN 12; I had them on both analog 12 and digital 45. July 29 had Iowa stations all over NOAA Weather Radio and the FM dial, so I checked out DTV to pull in KTIV 41. This is one of two Sioux City stations I never logged on their former analog channel (4). The signal, unfortunately, didn't hold long enough to get a video capture. I also logged KDIN 11; I also logged them on their former digital channel (50) in 2008. August 4 brought relogs of WCLJ 42 and WIPX 27. As of August 12, the DTV log stands at 121, the overall TV count at 664. 73 and good DX.

Though June 29-30 showed no coastal tropo, there was a little bit overnight going into the first day of July. So this July-2010 report is like second half of June with fairly steady but mediocre tropo. The first really stable (with high pressure) hot regional weather of the summer finally hit around July 12, but did not stay. A typical summer here is table high-pressure with cool/mild coast and hot inland. But this summer, high pressure didn't settle in and stay, so while there is tropo most of the time, it is poor and worse, so not typical good tropo.

THE ANTENNA-CRAFT Y-10

Karl Zuk

The Antennacraft Model Y10-7-13 is marketed as a Yagi design for high VHF TV reception. It defies standard conventions of antenna design. You'll find one reflector, two driven folded dipoles of slightly different lengths followed by seven evenly spaced same-length directors. In all respects, it is a compromise antenna. How this can be efficiently resonant over a broad spectrum of frequencies is beyond me. One would think a log periodic for this frequency range would produce a tighter nose with better linearity. I'd enjoy talking to its designer to understand the logic behind this product.

I purchased this antenna as a very inexpensive solution to replace reception of WTNH-DT, from New Haven, CT, RF channel 10, formerly supplied via Cablevision. The antenna was about $55 delivered fitting into a petty cash budget. Our local Cablevision recently cut over to all-digital transmission and I could no longer use their feed of this signal for our in-house TV distribution system. The antenna was mounted about 50 feet above ground level without pre-amplification. Its signal travels through about 100 feet of Belden 1694 RG-6 type cable to an 'Access HD' ATSC converter (granny box) that delivers baseband video and audio to an analog Channel 8 modulator (the old WTNH analog channel) for inclusion in our house RF system.

My office location is about 40 air miles from the WTNH-DT transmission site near Hamden, CT. It is a straight shot without a lot of attenuating terrain. Remarkably, when aligning this 'Yagi,' a spectrum analyzer showed a signal 28 db above the grass. Panning the antenna widely from its peak heading I noticed that the nose of this antenna was very broad. It was hard to decide the best bearing. Its front-to-back ratio is quite poor at less than 10 db. New York City, at 30 miles away, is almost directly opposite of our bearing towards Hamden, CT. The Antennacraft pulled in NYC signals equal to the WTNH signal off the back of this beam.

The WTNH-DT signal varies noticeably during the day. Reception seems best in the early morning hours between 5 and 8 am. The primitive signal strength display, via the 'Access HD' converter, shows continual variation between a full '100' to the high '80's, all well within the 'good' signal area. The result is a solid signal. I have not seen it drop out or pixelate once.

Physically, this Antennacraft 'Yagi' is feather weight and seems fragile. The antenna was delivered damaged. The long box had been crushed in shipping and I had to bend both halves of the boom back to true leaving two noticeable dimples. This is not on the level of construction you would expect from Winegard or Channel Master. Assembly took only a few minutes. I was sent back to my youth remembering installing inexpensive consumer grade TV antennas. The elements turn and snap into place. One element had to be persuaded to lock in correctly. Time will tell when it comes to long-term longevity. I guess we will see!

A word about our ATSC converters: I had a hard time finding Zenith DTT901 converters unless we reverted to eBay via PayPal. I had to use vendors accepting standard credit card payment. The 'Access HD' converter, sometimes marketed as 'MicroGEM,' comes out of a factory in China. About half the size of the Zenith DTT 901, they rely on a wall wart power supply and produce either baseband video and stereo audio or a pretty ratty Channel 3 or 4 analog NTSC conversion. This is a very low price device with low price feel. It is one tiny PC board mounted in a plastic box. The only display is a front panel LED: green for 'on' and red for 'off.' You need to use the complex remote control for anything more than on/off and channel selection. The audio defaults to a very low volume. Remember to turn it all the way up. While you are at it, turn off the auto-off setting that defaults to four hours! If you are very undemanding and have better than average signal, this may do the job for you. They seem to be the only ATSC converters that are currently being produced. 'Access HD' granny boxes are available for about $30 and produce just barely passable signal quality in SD only.

It was fun and effortless to install this antenna. They should all be this small and light! Even better, I got paid to do it! I'll be curious to see how this antenna endures. My office is located right at Stamford Harbor on salt water Long Island Sound. It will make a wonderful roost for seagulls and other flying beasties. Plenty of sun, wind and corrosion will follow! I've got to go. It's time to watch Dr. Mel's weather in letterbox 4X3 'HD!' – Karl Zuk N2KZ

86 FMs Have Turned Up Digital Juice

About 86 FM stations now have increased their digital power, according to the National Association of Broadcasters.

The NAB's Radio Tech Check newsletter this week searched the FCC's Consolidated Database System Electronic Filing System and arrived at that number. The search turned up 51 commercial and 35 noncommercial stations that have raised their HD Radio power level.

In late January the FCC authorized stations to operate with digital power levels in excess of the previous limit of 1% (-20 dBc) of analog signal power level.

After May 10, stations could simply notify the agency that they were transmitting at elevated power, rather than apply for an STA. Shortly after that date, Radio World counted some 40 FMs operating with elevated power. At that time, most had implemented increases of 6 dB, to 14 dB below carrier, or less.

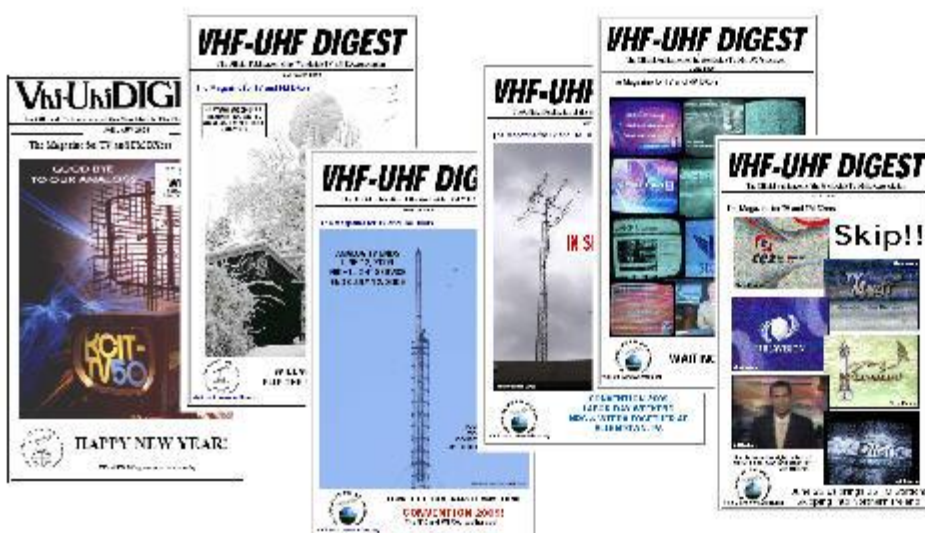

The NAB figures appear to confirm that trend. The majority of stations are operating at -14 dBc, the "blanket" authorized power level for most stations.

The NAB found that seven FMs are operating in excess of -14 dBc, with six of these having increased to the maximum allowed -10 dBc. Thirty-seven percent of stations operating at elevated digital power levels are operating below the -14 dBc blanket authorization value. NAB surmises that many of those stations increased digital power only as much as their current facilities would allow.

FM stations planning to increase their digital power should refer to a Public Notice (PDF) released by the Media Bureau on May 17 for guidance.

CBC won't meet digital TV deadline By CBC News

CBC News

CBC/Radio Canada won't meet the CRTC's deadline to convert to digital over-the-air television signals from analog by next August, the corporation said Friday.

The public broadcaster said it will require 27 transmitters to make the switchover nationally, but only 15 of them will be active by Aug. 31, 2011, the deadline imposed for major markets by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission.

The remaining 12 will be active by Aug. 31, 2012, CBC/Radio-Canada said.

The Crown corporation has asked the CRTC for permission to continue broadcasting analog signals in those markets until the transmitters are built. The English markets are Yellowknife, Regina, Winnipeg, Windsor, Saint John/Fredericton, Charlottetown, Halifax and St. John's, while the French markets are Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg.

Even after all 27 transmitters are active, only about 20 of the 30 markets the CRTC has designated as mandatory will be covered, said Steve Guiton, vice-president and chief regulatory officer for CBC/Radio-Canada. Some markets, such as big cities, require two transmitters to cover both English- and French-language services.

"We really couldn't afford to go any further and we cannot do less given the rules and regulations," Guiton said.

CRTC rules require broadcasters to either convert their over-the-air analog signals in markets designated as mandatory by the deadline, or cease airing them completely. CBC/Radio-Canada has also asked the CRTC for an exemption from converting in those extra 10 markets, Guiton said.

CBC/Radio-Canada currently has more than 600 analog transmitters across the country, as well as a handful of digital transmitters in operation in major cities.

Guiton said that once the 27 transmitters - 14 English and 13 French - are up and running, only one per cent of Canadians will have to turn to cable or satellite to continue receiving CBC/Radio-Canada television.

The federal government is resistant to delaying the analog-to-digital transition despite warnings from broadcasters and consumer representatives that the country is ill-prepared for the switch. An estimated 900,000 Canadian households have TVs with antennas that are not equipped to receive digital signals.

U.S. President Barack Obama was forced to delay his country's transition to digital from February to June 2009 when it became clear that industry and consumers were not ready for it.

Washington launched a huge public-awareness campaign and spent more than $1.5 billion US on a coupon scheme to help citizens pay for the new set-top converter boxes they'd need in order to receive digital signals.

Countries around the world are converting away from analog because digital signals use airwaves more efficiently. Many countries have plans to auction off the valuable analog airwaves to wireless companies. The eventual spectrum auction in Canada is expected to raise billions of dollars.

COMMENTS: BR = Burnt River; TO = Toronto. The most active June for Es here since 1994. Mexico logged at Burnt River for the first time ever on FM and TV (in over 30 years DXing here) on June 2. Also enjoyed some 500-mile range from southern Indiana June 24. The following month less exciting, aside from a nice western opening July 16. Not much tropo to speak of, some meteor scatter, but bursts have largely been short in duration.

A trio of Spanish unIDs June 19 On 88.3, 88.7 and 90.5, in parallel, first with a Spanish preacher, then a mix of Mexican music and a religious conversation of some kind. One theory puts it as south Texas translators. But I was getting nothing else from the area – the stuff was mostly from north Texas and the core of the opening, the Amarillo area. I did have out to eastern NM. Also had a 96.3 with Tejano music in the mix. I have audio clips of the three stations - if any of you want to listen feel free to contact me and I can forward by e-mail or post online.

Mr. Jim Pizzi's DX Den. Lots of good stuff here. XDR-F1HD, Sangean HDT-1X, DX-440, U-100 and HD-73 controllers, 1992 RCA 27" TV, Zenith DTT900 box, RS Pro 2036 scanner, 12" Magnavox B/W Television, Sony audio amp and probably even more stuff he forgot he had.
