WELL, THAT WAS QUICK

Once again we find some very unhappy DXers out there. You can't blame them. For some of them, the skip season was as bad as, or worse than, last years season. You can't blame them for looking every day at the DX Maps European page and thinking that the huge skip events that DXers over there were seeing would translate to more of the same over here. They didn't.

Just to recap, the month of May had a few weak, short-lived openings. The only good parts of June were the last two weeks that included one bang-up opening on the 29th. Then came July and the FM Es just fizzled out and as I write this on the 24th, I think I can safely say that the season is over. Stick a fork in it.

We can always look forward to next summer. But next summer may be even quieter, with the Mexican low band analog TV stations long gone. We'll see.

MEMBERS AND MORE

This month we welcome Brett Saylor into the WTFDA. Brett lives in PA and wrote on June 21st "I've wanted to join for some time, but the great Es of the past few days finally motivated me. I'm getting my FM setup in place and looking forward to (hopefully) more good conditions in the coming weeks, and also being involved with the group." Welcome Brett! I hope you did well!

We also welcome Paul Snider to the club. Paul lives in Ontario, Canada.

During the period from May 31st through July 14th we received renewals from Mike Hunter (NJ), Mike Lazaro (NY), Randy Zerr (FL), David Austin (SC), John Johnson (AZ), Fred Laun (VA), Gray Fulk (NC), Al Tobia (CA), Steve Ponder (TX), Tim McVey (VA), Jeff Kruszka (TX), John Adams (OR), Dave Bright (FL), Gary Siegel (OH), John Marx (WI), Ralph Strobel (IN), Ed Phelps (KY and David Sinclair (BC). Thanks everyone for supporting the WTFDA!

I don't think it has been mentioned here but most of us already know that Antennacraft is out of business. That means those who need a good fringe FM antenna have few choices. They can buy a ham quality fringe FM yagi from Innovantennas or they can buy a Körner designed FM antenna kit and assemble it themselves. They can build one themselves from plans on the K6sti site or, if all else fails, they can use a TV antenna that still has low band elements on it for FM. These days remind us more and more of the early days of DXing before commercially designed equipment became available.

Is it too much to hope for just one more big Es event before it's gone for good? Maybe, but I'm asking for one anyway. See you next month. -Mike K16LE forgot to enter geographic coordinates when they filed their power increase. In the unlikely case the application is granted, the transmitter will need to be located on a ship anchored off Equatorial Guinea:)

WZAW in Wisconsin is co-owned with the market's full-power CBS affiliate WSAW channel 7. WSAW purchased most of the assets of the market's Fox affiliate WFXS.

However, FCC regulations don't allow common ownership of two full-power stations in a market as small as Wausau. So, the former owners retain the WFXS license; lacking programming, they've taken the station dark. There are no restrictions preventing ownership of LPTV stations by full-power operations.

WZAW is authorized to operate on channel 33. However, the station received last-minute temporary permission to use channel 31 instead. It's reported using the former WFXS antenna – and indeed, the former WFXS transmitter, just at (greatly) reduced power. With WFXS off the air, no interference is possible.

An application has been filed to "permanentize" the channel 31 operation. WFXS's licensee has informed the FCC they don't object to the proposal – as they intend to return the WFXS license for cancellation.

The same thing has happened in Laredo, Texas with KVTU-13 going dark in favor of KYLX-LD (formerly KNEX-LD) channel 14.

Since March 2015, the translator has been operating under an STA reducing its power towards WCON, but that hasn't done anything to eliminate all of the interference. In a Remain Silent Authority application filed on 14 July, W257DF states that they are testing their equipment to see if they can identify any problems with the transmitter or their DA set-up, and will consider options to eliminate interference including reducing ERP. They expect it will take more than 30 days to return the translator to the air in a manner that will eliminate the interference issues. |

NEWS ITEM:

! FCC CRACKDOWN ON SILENT RADIO STATIONS

The FCC's Audio Division has begun an apparent crackdown on the practice of new radio stations going silent immediately after their license is granted.

As first reported by the CommLawBlog, radio licenses issued since July 2 contain this condition: "Grant of this license application is conditioned on continuous operations of the licensed facility for the twelve-month period following grant. Failure to do so will result in the rescission of this grant, dismissal of the license application and the forfeiture of the associated construction permit pursuant to 47 C.F.R. § 73.3598(c) unless licensee rebuts presumption that authorized facilities were temporarily constructed."

The condition has appeared on full-power radio station licenses, both commercial and non-commercial, but not on FM translator, low-power FM, or low-power TV licenses. There have not been any full-power TV licenses issued since last year, so it's not clear if the condition might apply to TV.

The condition means a station can't apply for special temporary authority to remain silent within one year of the license being granted, unless it can prove the facilities were intended to be on the air permanently. For the past decade or so, it has been a regular occurrence for new stations to apply for a license to cover and then immediately apply for authority to remain silent once the license is granted. The move gave station owners more than the three years specified in construction permit deadlines to get the new station on the air.

In one extreme case, Radioactive LLC had two FM stations in rural Iowa which were licensed for seven years but were never on the air for more than one day per year during that time, according to the stations' filings with the FCC. Earlier this year, Radioactive surrendered the licenses, saying they did not return to the air for the February 2015 broadcasts required to keep the licenses. Federal law automatically cancels licenses when stations are silent for one year.

The FCC has not made a formal announcement of this new condition.

This month we welcome new member Andrew Knafel (otherwise known as Crazy Monkey on the forums) of Akron, OH. Andrew's antennas are a Winegard YA-6260 for low-VHF, an Antenna-Craft Y5713 for hi-VHF, and an Antennas Direct XG91 for UHF. The Editor's Note

After June rebounded for E-skip in many areas, July reverted to very anemic, scattered openings, fueling the ire of many DXers. The way you remember the 2015 Es season will probably be dependent on how productive the period between approximately June 15 and July 3 was for you – for some, it was bountiful enough to more than make up for the quiet stretches this year. Others are still waiting, and probably not so patiently.

Tropo, meanwhile, has made some appearances throughout July, including openings more reminiscent of September or early October across the Great Lakes on the 15th through 17th. The gulf coast and Texas got in on the fun on the 23rd and 24th – with water-fueled paths also not normally seen during the summer months.

Nick:

Here are my most recent loggings. This season from mid-May till now (July 15) has been a crazy season, especially with constantly changing weather patterns that are up and down. E-skip in mid-June was great with many low-power stations showing up that would not normally make it through but conditions were favorable for them to be seen. Since I was laid up due to injuries I was able to monitor TV more than normal.

June 2-10 – occasional E-skip mostly Canadian analogs to northeast, Mexico, and Cuba. Plus WLBZ-2 Bangor. Occasional tropo into Michigan, Ohio out to 250 miles.

June 12 – Tropo – many Canadians, all Rochester digitals, Batavia 51, Detroit digitals, Toledo

June 13 – E-skip XHY-2

June 15 – E-skip Mexico channels 2-6, CMBA-2, CMEC-3 (new)

June 16 – E-skip many Mexcians, several Cubans, KNOP-2, Canadian analogs

June 17 – CMEC-3, CMBC-6, WEYS Miami (new), KIVV-5 South Dakota (new), KOTA-3, KNOP-2

June 18 – E-skip Canadian analogs to NE; Mexico 2

June 20 – E-skip Cubans 2-6

June 21 – Trops Michigan (many eastern) also South Bend U's

June 21 – Good trops WWHO-46 (new), WBNS-21 (new), WANE-31, WSYX-48 (new), WCHS-41(new) E-skip – XEWO-2 (new), KNOP-2, WMC-5, KXDA-5 Oklahoma (new)

June 22 – KXOR-5 new), XEPM-2, CJCB-4 (new)

June 23 – Big day E-skip non-stop – KIVV-5, KDLO-3, KOTA-3, WDVZ-3 (new), KJWP-2 Delaware (short skip, new) (very nice, that's remarkably short –NL), XHY-2, Cubans 2-6; WMC-5, WPGF-6 (new), KNOP-2, KBSD-6 (new, in 1 hour, then back after 2 hours into June 24)

June 24 – KCWX-5 (new), XEPM-2 Trops – WXIN-45 (new), unID Kentucky U's (digitals), WPSU-15 (seen 3 times since new)

July 3 E-skip – Canadian analogs (mostly CTV) Trops – many Canadians, all Rochester, Batavia 51, Watertown and Syracuse, Detroit U's, Lansing U's, Toledo U's, Lima 27

July 5-15 – some weak Es NE Trops – frequent Cleveland, Rochester, Batavia, Toledo, Erie strong, Canadians (many) Also many unIDs throughout last 30 days, especially E-skip (crowded channels). Suspect low-power repeaters. Also noted super dead conditions on non-DX days. A lot of rainy and stormy periods.

Best to all

Some light tropo to wrap up 2014; the 2015 E-skip season began with XEPM 2 on May 8. Some of the early E-skip openings this season had maximum usable frequencies that only reached Channel 5. That was before the opening of June 17, when I logged my shortest E-skip log on DTV with KXDA-LD 5 (virtual channel 41) from Durant, OK. PSIP info was the only thing noted; this was a pleasant surprise. Oklahoma is a new state on DTV. Dallas/Fort Worth FM stations were also in via short E-skip; the MUF on that opening reached 162.4 MHz. I also logged a new analog TV station with XHCJ 4; not too many more opportunities to log new Mexican TV stations left before the switch to digital is complete south of the border. The next day, WACP 4 and WRGB 6 decoded, although the meter on the DTV converter lit up on 2 and 3. June 20 started with an E-skip opening into Cuba, followed by a tropo opening toward the Chicago area. WGN 19 was the only station that decoded, although the converter's meter lit up on 12, 27, 29, 38, 44, 45 and 50. Another E-skip opening into Mexico took place on 23, followed by a tropo opening to southwestern IN on June 26. As of July 7, the analog TV logbook stands at 580, with the digital TV logbook at 167. 73!

Bought $31 Esko FP-9000 late April for amusement. When i found it worked, I bought a 91XG, and returned to TV DXing May 9 after a 20 year layoff. On May 25, I added a CM 4221HD 4-bay, rotatable on tower at 72', to the 91 XG, first mounted on chimney and later side mounted, fixed south. Over 95% of my loggings in June are with the CM4221HD with most VHF using the Antennacraft MXV-5100 put on the chimney when I side mounted the 91XG at 50'. With present set-up, I get 200+ mile tropo every morning, over 40 days in a row now, with 300 mile tropo 2 or 3 times a week. I'm hemmed in by the Appalachian mountains with apparently no DX possible from my west to my NNE across the mountains.

My previous report was a tiny bit on March 10. I still have not done much DXing, but here is what I have done.

I was out of town for most of June 2015. On return to Santa Barbara late June, I noticed tropo was pretty good. So here is a catch-up on those analog observations on March 10.

This was noted in late June at my place on indoor antennas, and then confirmed at Don Voegel's nearby place with his big antennas.

June 30, mid morning at Don's place.

35: K35DG "UCSD-TV" La Jolla, Calif (Univ. Calif.
San Diego) 175mi/280km. Not seen, but it is the weakest of this group and tropo may or may not have been good enough.

39: KZSD-LP San Diego, Calif (Azteca America)
175mi /280km. It was seen this time, so it is still on for sure.

49: XHDTV Tecate, Baja Calif (MundoFox)
220mi/350km. It is definitely now OFF THE AIR.

56: XHUAA-relay Tecate, Baja Calif (XEW-2 network) 220mi/350km. It is also now definitely OFF.

In this first half of July, tropo has been only fair or worse.

On several days in mid-October, my local NOAA Weather Radio station, KDO89, was off the air, allowing me to re-log Evansville and Champaign on 162.550. On October 23, the entire NOAA Weather Radio network from Weldon Spring was either on open carrier or off completely, allowing me to add a new log in KXI93 from Cape Girardeau. The opening of October 26-27 resulted in an additional three stations in the NOAA Weather Radio logbook; KXI96 on 162.4 became the 120th NOAA Weather Radio station logged at Hazelwood since I started my log at the beginning of 2001. 2014 ended with a translator testing; W232CR 94.3 in Jerseyville tested two days after Christmas with WLCA 89.9 in Godfrey; they went to regular schedule in early January, carrying the News/Talk format of WBGZ 1570 in Alton. It gets out just as far as the AM's daytime signal; this 200-watt can make it all the way to Bridgeton with little trouble. In February, St. Louis got its first LPFM station with KTGP-LP 99.5; this eight-watt station has its antenna on a tall building. A local basketball club owns the station. It gets out pretty well for an LPFM, making it as far away as Granite City. It looked like 2015 would be a dud on E-skip...that was before June 17. That first opening had a maximum usable frequency of 162.4 MHz, allowing me to pull in short E-skip from the Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex and Houston. Texas also became the 23rd state logged on NOAA Weather Radio with the logs of Del Rio and Midland on 162.4 MHz. Another E-skip opening the following day brought three new FM stations from upstate New York and one from New Hampshire. June 20 started with E-skip to Florida, but soon faded to tropo from northern Illinois and northern Indiana. One new NOAA Weather Radio station and two new FMs were logged from Illinois, along with a new Indiana FM. June ended with an E-skip opening to the Carolinas; I caught the tail end of it with WERO 93.3; this is the 1,300th FM station logged at Hazelwood since I started my current log in 1992. As of July 7, 2015, the FM logbook stands at an even 1,300, with the NOAA Weather Radio logbook at 123. 73!

About my method of DXing and reporting: my objective is not to rack up station totals; indeed I have no idea what they would be in some 60 years of DXing. Sorry, but my eyes glaze over seeing long lists of logs, one-liners with no or minimal details, tho they save a lot of space in printed bulletins. And is it really of interest to anyone but the logger, whether an item is NEW or not? I recall that a few of mine this day were logged previously, but don't keep track with any tally. Instead, I enjoy learning more and more about geography, culture, business, radio station practices, language, etc., etc. – each log a potential learning experience; and often the subsequent challenge of figuring out an ID from clues logged. So the more detail the better. Also, my observations can be added to database info where lacking. I long ago quit actively collecting QSLs, so these details are not to convince a station I heard them. But SHAME upon anyone who would use my details to garner undeserved QSLs, pretending they actually DXed the stations. I feel this is hardly a real problem since most of the stations could be "pretend-DXed" on webcasts now anyway, if one is really so dishonest.

WTFDA Convention

Posted by Ryan Grabow on his personal blog.

I've been a member of the Worldwide TV-FM DX Association since 1999 but haven't been able to go to one of their conventions until this year. The payoff of my big student loan and the resulting travel budget has allowed me to make the trek to Fort Wayne, Indiana this month to see my fellow club members and see what this convention business was all about. Prior to this I'd only met two other WTFDAers in person, now that number is... I'm gonna go with eight.

The convention wasn't that small, but this was a joint convention with the National Radio Club and International Radio Club of America, both of which focus on AM (Mediumwave) DXing. Many WTFDAers are also members of these clubs, and I certainly had enough interest in AM DXing to get by. There were clips of New Zealand AM stations received during DXpeditions in the Pacific Northwest (awesome!) and quizzes I didn't know the answers to (very few stations near the Gulf coast have three-letter calls). On the flip side a few AM DXers showed interest in FM and TV DXing, asking us what antennas and tuners they might try. So having multiple clubs together certainly has benefits.

Naturally my focus was on the TV/FM side of things. I joined a tour of a local radio station cluster, a cluster of e-skip targets for me, and duly made my bandscan recordings for YouTube (it'll be a while before I can edit it though). The highlight for me was some evening tropo on day two. Steve Rich from Indianapolis brought a UHF yagi with him and four of us, large balcony all to ourselves, had decodes from TV stations as far as Lexington, Kentucky (350km away). Since I wasn't familiar with stations in the region I hung back and snapped photos for the cover of the VHF-UHF Digest. I've been editor for the VUD for a year now. How time flies...

Along the way to and from Fort Wayne (this was of course an excuse for a road trip) I drove in four states for the first time, bringing the total to 17, and made stops in Chattanooga, Lima, Louisville, and Macon. Bandscan videos are coming for those as well, once I have the Fort Myers' tropo and e-skip videos done. I also made a quick stop outside of Nashville to record the signal of WTVF channel 5. There are few digital stations operating on VHF-lo and I'd never seen one, so this was my opportunity to change that. The WTVF video was posted on YouTube the night I returned. I also listened to a few stations I'd already caught by e-skip, like WEKF 88.5 in Kentucky, and AM clear channels like WHAS and WLW that I'm used to (somewhat) hearing at night in Fort Myers.

I don't expect to start going to these conventions every year, but I'll be paying attention to the announcements. It's nice to have the option now.
