Thanks everyone for supporting the WTFDA!

This will be a big issue this month due to all of the repacking news. I'll keep this column to just one page this month as I try to recover from the flu.

Tweet!

Nick Langan has set up a Twitter Account for the club. Nick scours the various dx groups and chats online and will tweet out skip or tropo alerts as he finds them. The URL for this account is <https://twitter.com/DXTVFM>. Use this URL or follow along on your cellphone on Twitter.

Official FCC Stats

If you thought the FM band was crowded, you are correct:

*****

FM Commercial: 6754      FM Educational: 4112

Xltrs/Boosters: 7453      LPFMs: 1924

The grand total: 20243

*****

And to think that another translator window for AM stations opens shortly and the AM band is being saved. That should make us all very happy. See you next month. -Mike

The incentive auction is complete. Post-auction channel assignments will appear later in this month's VUD. (there's about 21 pages of data..)

I have posted repacking maps in the WTFDA Forums, under WTFDA Members Area, TV News, Post-repack channel maps. This thread also contains .kmz files which may be used with Google Earth to explore the locations of stations on each channel. (and to see Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the US Virgin Islands)

A (lengthy!) visit to <http://www.rabbitears.info> would definitely be in order. Trip has the repack info merged with his valuable listings. He also has more information on sharing partners. And, a variety of other repack-related resources.

- Summary:

By my figures:

1,074 stations	47.7%	Unaffected by the auction. They will continue to operate on their pre-auction channels. I suppose it's possible some will be required to make changes if they share a tower with a station that's moving.
454 stations	20.2%	Forcibly repacked to new channels in their current band – 2-6, 7-13, or 14-36.
516 stations	22.9%	Forcibly repacked from channels above 37 to channels between 14 and 36.
15 stations	0.7%	Volunteered to move from UHF to VHF-Low.
1 station	0.04%	Volunteered to move from VHF-High to VHF-Low. (WQED Pittsburgh)
13 stations	0.6%	Volunteered to move from UHF to VHF-High.
12 stations	0.5%	Will go permanently off the air.
133 stations	5.9%	Entered sharing agreements. (more on this below)

Here are the twelve stations leaving the air altogether:

Station	Ch	Location	Compensation
KATA-CD	50	Mesquite, Tex.	$19,602,242
KGHZ	19	Springfield, Mo.	$0
WAGT	30	Augusta, Ga.	$40,763,036
WAOH-CD	29	Akron, Ohio	$1,779,772
WBKI-TV	19	Campbellsville, Ky.	$20,656,456
WDLP-CD	21	Pompano Beach, Fla.	$3,673,224
WFXI	8	Morehead City, N.C.	$42,070,860
WMEI	14	Arecibo, P.R.	$9,696,619
WNYJ-TV	29	West Milford, N.J.	$120,974,061
WPBO	43	Portsmouth, Ohio	$8,822,670
WSJU-TV	31	San Juan, P.R.	$5,202,091
WWJS-CD	15	Clarksville, Ind.	$9,992,700

I don't know why the compensation figure for KGHZ is zero.

Total compensation paid to all stations is a bit more than $10.2 billion. The most paid to a full-power station is $304,250,040 to WWTO-TV La Salle, Illinois. La Salle is in the Chicago market (although the WWTO transmitter is a long way from the Loop!) and WWTO precluded use of channel 10 in that area. The most paid to a Class A station is $80,401,978 to WYCN-CD Nashua, New Hampshire.

The least paid (not counting KGHZ) is $173,076 to KMMA-CD San Luis Obispo, California. The least paid to a full-license station is $485,661 to WWTW Senatobia, Mississippi. (Memphis. This station is full-license but only 20kw. The least paid to a station of more than 200kw is $3,359,483 for WFGC Palm Beach, Florida to move from channel 49 to channel 7.)

- Power changes:

The FCC has released a data file showing the post-auction channel and power of each station that will move to new facilities. There is a significant change in technical policy in this repack. Since 1952, when UHF was introduced, the FCC regarded all channels in a band as having equal coverage. The maximum permissible power for a high-VHF analog station was 316kw on all seven channels 7-13. For a UHF analog station the maximum was 5000kw on every channel from 14-83.

In practice, if coverage is better (for the same power) on channel 10 than on channel 20, then it's also better on channel 20 than on channel 40. The 2017 tables reflect that. KBLR (Paradise/Las Vegas) is making that move from 40 to 20. Its power will be reduced from 1000kw to 655kw. Stations moving in the other direction may see power increases. KAVU-TV Victoria, Texas is moving from 15 to 20 and will be allowed to increase from 900kw to 1000kw. No station will be increased past 1000kw.

These tables assume each station will install its post-repack antenna at the same height (and location) as its current antenna. In many cases this is not a valid assumption. Unless the station has a “candelabra” tower, it is impossible to install antennas for multiple channels at the same height. We should expect temporary sidemount antennas in many cases.

- Transition schedule:

Stations moving to new channels have until July 12th to apply for construction permits to make the necessary changes. (July 12th is 90 days from the date of the auction completion release, April 13th.) Stations which sold their channels outright have three months from the date they receive their auction proceeds to cease operation. Those which entered into channel-sharing agreements (see below) have six months from receipt of proceeds to abandon their existing channels.

The transition, for stations moving to new channels, will happen in ten phases. Stations in a phase must complete the move by the “Phase Completion Date”; they may not operate on their old channel after that date. Equally important, they may not begin operations on their new channel until the “Testing Start Date”. The Commission has released a list of “Linked-Station Sets”. Stations in such a set must transition together to avoid mutual interference. They must coordinate their testing with each other. The earliest Testing Start Date is September 14, 2018; the last Phase Completion Date is July 3, 2020.

There are 83 Linked-Station Sets. The longest – number 40 in phase 5 – contains 94 stations. I was curious why my local WNPT was being repacked from channel 8 to channel 7, so I looked up its linked set. It's number 78 in phase 10 and contains 24 stations:

Stn.	Location	From	To
WACS-TV	Dawson, GA	8	7
WGTV	Athens, GA	8	7
WNPT	Nashville, TN	8	7
WOLO-TV	Columbia, SC	8	7

WEHT	Evansville, IN	7	12
WVPT	Staunton, VA	11	12
WTOK-TV	Meridian, MS	11	13
WTSF	Ashland, KY	44	13

These stations must transition simultaneously to avoid mutual interference. They also suggest possible scenarios as to why a given station was repacked. With regard to WNPT, I see a seven-station set of dominoes that might have forced my local from 8 to 7.

You can imagine how long lists of linked stations could form.

- Channel sharing:

133 stations have entered channel-sharing agreements. You may have seen a FCC release showing a large number of stations electing to “Go off-air”. (surprisingly, this list includes the very first U.S. commercial TV station, WNBC New York) Most of these – including WNBC -- are engaged in sharing agreements. Their existing transmitters will indeed go off-air. Their licenses will however live. The stations will operate as subchannels of some other station. The FCC has not yet released a list of sharing partners, but in many cases they're obvious. NBC, for example, owns a second station in the New York market, WNJU channel 47. (RF 36, repacked to 35) You can assume WNBC and WNJU will share channel 35. The PSIP Major Channel number need not be the same for all stations on a transmitter. WNBC will continue to be channel 4.1 (and WNJU will continue to be channel 47.1).

When a sharing agreement happens, the participants also share the auction proceeds. It's not entirely clear to me what the formula is but I suspect it's a private contract matter, spelled out in the sharing agreement. WNBC/WNJU is not the only case where the stations in a sharing agreement are co-owned, which makes sharing the proceeds easy. (grin)

- ATSC 3.0:

Some social media posts have suggested stations will be required to convert to ATSC 3.0 as part of the repacking process. This is not true. We should expect nearly all stations to operate in ATSC 1.0 after repacking, whether they end up on new channels or not.

A week or so before the auction results were announced, the FCC proposed to allow voluntary conversion to ATSC 3.0. The challenge.. is that since no ATSC 3.0 receivers yet exist in the U.S., any station which converts instantly loses 100% of its over-the-air audience.

When we transitioned from analog to ATSC 1.0, the FCC issued every station a second channel for digital simulcasts. That's not going to happen this time. There aren't enough available channels. (even in a relatively isolated area like Nashville.) The Commission did ask whether multiple stations might share a temporary channel for ATSC 3.0 simulcasts during a transition. (or, use the temporary channel to broadcast in ATSC 1.0 while switching their main transmitters to 3.0) That might work.

TV News Special: The Repack

The FCC has released the post-repack channel assignments.

First, let's recap how we got here.

All full-license and Class A TV stations were allowed to participate in an “Incentive Auction”. (Class A stations are, from an engineering standpoint, identical to LPTVs but agree to comply with most non-technical regulations that don't apply to LPTVs. In return, they were allowed to participate in the auction. They were guaranteed a post-auction channel if they didn't participate or didn't sell.)

Stations were required to notify the FCC of their choice among the following options:

- Refuse to participate.
- Offer to sell their channel to the FCC for some amount of money, and go off the air.
- Offer to sell their channel to the FCC for some amount of money, and become a subchannel of some other station.
- Offer to trade their UHF channel for a VHF channel for some amount of money.
- Offer to trade their high-VHF channel for a low-VHF channel for some amount of money.

The FCC then determined the least amount of money they would need to spend to buy enough stations' UHF channels to clear 31-51 for sale. Once they had a figure, they asked the wireless industry how much they were willing to spend to buy that spectrum.

The answer was, “less than what the FCC would have to pay for it”. So the first round of the auction failed. In the second round, the FCC kept channels 32 and 33 for TV and tried again. The second round also failed. So did the third. The auction finally succeeded in March when, in the fourth round, the amount wireless companies were willing to pay for channels 38-51 exceeded the amount broadcasters required to sell those channels.

So, now, the FCC has to redistribute the available channels 2-36 among those stations which refused to participate in the auction and those which participated but didn't sell. The Commission cannot force a station to move from UHF to VHF, nor from high-VHF to low-VHF. (but again, stations could volunteer to make those moves) The Commission can, and will force stations to move from channels above 37 to channels below 37. The FCC no longer regards all UHF channels as equal propagationwise. Stations moving to lower channels will find their powers reduced.

Here's the meat of this article. Each full-license and Class A station which is moving or going dark is listed. Shown are the pre-repack channel; the post-repack channel if any; the pre- and post-repack powers; the sharing partner (if known); the disposition; and the amount paid if the station sold its channel.

There are seven possible dispositions:

- LAT: Station filed late for auction eligibility and will be assigned a channel later.
- OLD: Station was granted a move to UHF after the auction filing deadline. It's assigned a post-auction channel in its old VHF-low band.
- OFF: Station will leave the air entirely.
- RP: Repacked within the 2-36 band. A station already operating below channel 37 wasn't bought in the auction but will be forcibly moved to a new channel in its existing band.
- RQ: Repacked below channel 37. A station operating above channel 37 wasn't bought in the auction. The FCC has found it a new channel below 37.
- SH: Channel sharing. The station will surrender its existing channel and become a subchannel of some other station. A footnote will identify which other station is involved.
(Sharing partners are an educated guess & often unknown. The FCC has not yet released official data.)
- VH: Station is being paid to move from UHF to VHF-High.
- VL: Station is being paid to move from UHF or VHF-High to VHF-Low. I'm marking these stations in italics as potential Es targets.

In the tables below, “SP” means Sharing Partner. (see SH above) Again, stations that aren't moving aren't listed.

The Editor's Note

Tropo has been simmering across the deep south and southeast over the last week of April, and now we wait with baited breath for the first reports of E-skip to start to trickle in.

We hope all are able to enjoy a bountiful 2017 E-skip season. We're crossing our fingers for more of a "spread the wealth" campaign this season – including openings across more areas, and more activity spread throughout the 3 months you'd expect to receive such propagation (as opposed to last year's output which, for all intents and purposes, was focused over the last two weeks of July).

** OKLAHOMA. Channel A-48, March 24 at 1558 UT, a flash of NTSC video not locking in, just as I hear a Vance jet fly overhead: airplane scatter visiblizing KOCY-LP in OKC as still on the air. I often let the NTSC TV set run on ch 48 in the mornings, even when there is no tropo enhancement like today.

Checked almost every morning and even when there is some area tropo, no sign of it again as of April 25. Could still be on air, anyway (Glenn Hauser, OK, DX LISTENING DIGEST)

** OKLAHOMA. RF 7, KOCO ``5``, OKC, local news hour, April 3 at 1432 UT flashes a map graphic showing St. Petersburg on the Black Sea coast! About where Sochi really is. Another good reason local stations should leave world news to the networks. (Glenn Hauser, OK, DX LISTENING DIGEST)

Costa Rica FM updated in WTFDA FM database

Posted by Jim Thomas to the WTFDA Forums [April 29, 2017]

Source: <http://forums.wtfda.org/showthread.php?11304-Costa-Rica-FM-updated-in-WTFDA-FM-database>

The CNR (license/broadcast regulations wing of Costa Rica government) recently updated all of their license documents on their website. What that means to me is I was able to update transmitter powers and LAT/LONG and HAAT for EVERY FM in Costa Rica. The WTFDA FM database is UP-TO-DATE for Costa Rica fm's. These updates are effective today.

Its interesting reading about stations I will probably never hear OTA. I can ONLY DREAM that I would ever get an Es opening to Costa Rica :-)

Just a note about most of the San José radio stations, which pretty much includes every AM/FM and TV transmitter & tower. Almost all of them are on Volcán Irazú. Want to take a look at the San José antenna park? (called a park in Spanish circles). Follow this link to Google Maps satellite view...

<https://goo.gl/h8MXuc>

One interesting note about most of the San José full power FM's. They have national coverage, which means most have multiple low power repeater transmitters scattered throughout the country on the same frequency as the main signal. I do NOT show those low power transmitters in the WTFDA FM db. It would be a moot point to put them in there, as a dxer would never know they were hearing one of them - UNLESS - they heard an echo when hearing the main transmitter signal.

On a side note, I was able to spend some time on Google Maps and was able to locate almost every FM tower in Costa Rica. I just ran into one station that I couldn't locate the tower. I did find their web-stream and used Total Recorder to record a bit of them, in hopes of maybe the announcer saying something about exactly where they are located. Long shot for sure. If anyone speaks Spanish and can tell what the announcer was talking about on a program break, please share. I have uploaded the clip here, about 3 minutes worth of audio.
