Channel Master

The Titan series of preamplifiers have been a staple in the Channel Master portfolio for over 30 years and have been a favorite among contractors and installers. Over the past few years we have seen a resurgence in over-the-air TV use and an increase of installers using our products because of their reliability and quality. Based on this growth in OTA, our team decided several months ago to make these legacy preamplifiers even better by leveraging some of the same technology and features that are used in our flagship Amplify and Amplify+ preamplifiers.

After many months of development and testing, Channel Master is happy to introduce the New and Improved Medium Gain (CM-7778V3) and High Gain (CM-7777V3) Titan 2 Preamplifiers.

Note that the WTFDA does not endorse the products of any manufacturer. The material on this page is for informational purposes only

How are they better?

- Improved circuitry provides a cleaner signal
- Lower Noise Figure
- Enhanced RF shielding to help eliminate Electrical (RF) interference
- Improved out of band filtering
- Enhanced weather seal to protect internal circuitry from moisture migration.

DX Pets

“Having your pet sit on your SDR or climb across your keyboard as you DX really increases your enjoyment of the hobby”
-anonymous

This month we have a photo of Pau Mitschler’s cat Impy. Impy isn’t much interested in DX. Impy is more interested in birds. Paul might want to point Impy to Pluto TV where Impy can spend all day watching the Pet Collective channel.

“I don’t know if you still want pet photos but I finally found this one of my cat Impy who is just fascinated with nature shows on PBS. “

And as far as I know, this is the only kitty who ever got itself on a QSL card...

Thanks to Raymie Humbert for information in this month's column.

The “corporate” that’s being “restructured” is Digital Networks of Chattanooga.

I was in Milwaukee for the end of Phase 6, on October 18th. Stations in Milwaukee moved early in the morning. (I woke up at a ridiculous hour but the stations had already switched<grin>) Two of the three Madison stations that moved did so at 10am. (WTMJ went to WIFS’s former channel early Friday morning, so WIFS had to move at the same time) I understand numerous other stations as far away as Nashville moved at 10:00; in Louisville, the swap hour was 9:00.

In Milwaukee, all expected stations indeed showed up on their new channels. The only signal above channel 36 was WTSJ-LD on 38. LPTVs are not tied to any repack phase and may remain as long as T-Mobile doesn’t kick them off. WTSJ has filed to move to channel 26.

In Nashville, WZTV is operating on a temporary reduced-power facility of only 68 kilowatts, and to a temporary lower antenna. I live in a difficult reception area, and channel 17 is mostly (but not entirely) gone. WTVF is at full power on their new channel, but with an interim antenna about 100 meters lower on the tower. They’re coming in but not 100% reliably. I’m confident both stations will return to a reliable signal once they activate their permanent facilities in a week or two.

I’m not so sure about WNPX. Along with the repack-related move from channel 32 to 36, WNPX also moved to the WUBT-101.1 FM tower northeast of Nashville. The station is operating at approximately 2/3 the power it had – with an antenna about 200 feet lower – and a site about 30 miles further from my home. Amazingly, I do still seem to have some signal from WNPX. But it’s not watchable and that’s not a surprise.

FM NEWS NEEDS YOUR HELP!

We need YOUR help! Hundreds of stations broadcast HD signals (HD-2, HD-3, HD-4) in addition to their standard FM signal, many as the source for translators. Those of you with an HD receiver can help us. Just scan the 'dial' and report the stations, formats and slogans you hear on each HD- signal. Your report will be recognized here in FM News! Thanks, in advance!

The Editor's Note

After what seemed like a summer that would not end for many across the southern U.S., many in the north are seeing an early start to winterlike conditions. Needless to say, the prevailing weather setup that looks to be in charge for the first half of November across the continent looks far from conducive to tropo DX. If recent years are any indicator, the Midwest and Great Lakes still have a shot for tropo activity during later November or December temperature rebounds, and the Deep South is always in play almost any time of year. For us on the east coast...it's probably wait till next April or May...

The morning of September 14 brought a tropo opening to western KY, southeast MO and northeast AR. Several DTVs from the area lit up but failed to decode; the only one logged was "Franken-FM" WPGF-LP. The programming is now separate from WHBQ 560. Just some tropo into central Illinois on the morning of September 15. I noticed that WICD 32 and WICS 42 were similarly configured. WICD now operates as a full-fledged satellite of WICS; the "Newschannel 20" logo is used on both stations. The evening of September 17 brought a tropo opening into the Lake Michigan area with Chicago area DTVs decoding, along with logging WSJV 28 since Fox moved to one of the sub-channels of WSBT 22. I also logged my first channel-sharing station with the third sub-channel of WXFT (which shares with WLS). Other DTVs in that region lit up the signal meter but failed to decode. September 26 brought DTVs from central Illinois and western Indiana; WTWO 36 was the only Terre Haute station to decode that morning; WTHI 10 and WAWV 39 lit up the signal meter but failed to decode. DTV total is now at 172. 73 and good DX from the Florissant Valley Dial Twister.

Northern Taurids

Currently active

Active from October 20th to December 10th, 2019

This shower is much like the Southern Taurids, just active a bit later in the year. When the two showers are active simultaneously in late October and early November, there is sometimes an notable increase in the fireball activity. There seems to be a seven year periodicity with these fireballs. 2008 and 2015 both produced remarkable fireball activity.

Shower details - Radiant: 03:52 +22.7° - ZHR: 5 - Velocity: 18 miles/sec (medium - 30km/sec) - Parent Object: 2P/Encke

Next Peak - The Northern Taurids will next peak on the Nov 11-12, 2019 night. On this night, the moon will be 100% full.

This month we welcome Albert Earnhardt to the WTFDA. Al, we hope you enjoy it! And thank you to all of you who sent in your renewals this month.

We are now in phase 7 in the repack process. It would be nice if we could say that the future is bright for TV DXing. Yes, it would be nice if we could say that.

John Tudenham wrote: "Not much FM DXing. AM translators are all over the FM Band. 51 in Joplin area." (I feel your pain). The plague is everywhere.

David Mackes: "I heard there was someone in AL who was selling FM antennas. I think it was the Korner..."

Yes, that was Les Rayburn but he only had a few and I think they (the Korners) all are gone. Email him at les@highnoonfilms.com. Happy Thanksgiving !!
