Zenith DTT 900/901 Insignia NS-DXA1 Converter Box Information

Jim Thomas

I wanted to share an interesting email with you. It comes from engineer Gary Sgrignoli, who was one of the engineers at the Zenith/LG facility in Chicago, at the time of the transition from analog to digital TV. He was one of the leading engineers on the team that developed the tuner chip that is in the DTT 900 & 901 set top boxes, in addition to almost ALL of the LG televisions in production today.

Gary is in a digital television broadcast testing lab now as a partner with two other engineers. They contract with television broadcasting companies for conducting field tests, etc.

* * * * *

With regard to DTV receivers, we have no further knowledge on ATSC1 (8-VSB) tuners or chip sets since that became a very stable technology years ago. We often refer to that technology as the "5th generation" chip set (initially came out in the 2004 - 2005 time frame), and that was the one that was used in the Zenith converter box (both labels, Zenith and Insignia) in the 2008-2009 transition. The receiver's sensitivity is good (noise figure of around 6 dB) and good multipath performance (probably using a frequency domain equalizer).

As a matter of fact, we (MSW) still do a lot of field testing (both ATSC1 and ATSC3), especially now that the spectrum repack is occurring (ATSC1 tests) and NextGen is being deployed (ATSC3 tests). When we perform a field test in one of our MSW field test vans, we still use the Zenith converter box (we still have several of these legacy devices sitting around just for this purpose). Therefore, we know of nothing better to use.

It is our suspicion that manufacturers quit trying to upgrade their ATSC1 tuner performance years ago, and have moved on to bigger things (e.g., like ATSC3/NextGen). When I do field tests in a test van other than our MSW van (when our field test van is not available because it is in some distant part of the country), I carry a mobile type of hardware setup to install quickly in a client's ENG test van. For those type of tests (where I carry my equipment with me on the plane: one checked bag and one carry-on), I use a small 7" Viore LCD portable TV (PLC7V95), which I can anecdotally say works well. I had suggested that one of our clients in Chicago use the Viore unit (who I oversaw performing their own comparison test against ATSC3), and it performed very well in the near suburbs and even in downtown areas in the presence of large buildings (i.e., many non-line-of-sight conditions). However, I do not have hard lab-based facts to compare it against the Zenith converter box performance. I would not be surprised, though, if the Viore used the same LG chipset. BTW, the Viore unit is no longer in production, but I just bought a spare one from E-bay earlier this year.

As you can see, it has been a big month for renewals. Thank you to all of you who got them in so quickly, because when you do, we can get a handle on just how many people we have in the WTFDA , which is now around 210.

We have some new members. One is Sam Mount. Sam is originally from Connecticut, lives in Missouri and goes to college in Texas. Sam is into FM Dxing. Stephanie Battaglino is from California and is a MW Dxr. I've seen her name on the SDRPlay forums so I assume she now has one. Taylor Crain is an FM Dxr from the state of Washington and you would find him on the old deceased DXWorld tvfmskiplog but now you will see him on our BB and our forums. And we welcome back Roger Gravelle, who I had the pleasure to speak to on the phone recently and get his membership straightened out. Welcome to all of you!

Ch-Ch-Ch-CHANGES!

First, here's a little background. Originally the WTFDA Board of Directors consisted of five people. Over time, as one, and then another dropped out of the club, they were not replaced and the club was run by just three people until Jim Thomas came aboard and brought us back to four.

Now we are back to five again. The board would like to officially welcome Saul Chernos to the WTFDA board of directors. Saul is a veteran AM and FM Dxr. Saul is here because he is concerned about the future of the WTFDA. The club's future depends on younger members and one of Saul's goals is to get those younger members into the club and get them involved.

What Saul and the rest of the board of directors intends to do is examine everything about the WTFDA to see what can be changed, left unchanged, improved upon or, in some cases, discarded or discontinued. We will also be looking for input from our members as we try to figure out how the WTFDA can serve its members and the TV/FM DX community in general into the future. Saul will serve as the WTFDA's "Creative Director".

Up until July, the WTFDA printed ten paper VUDs to members who either had no computer to view the eVUD or did have a computer but didn't want the eVUD for one reason or another. Because of the high cost of printing just ten VUDs, the board decided to drop paper completely and no longer print any paper VUDs beginning with the July issue. So now, as of this issue, we are a 100% digital publication.

Now these are not the only changes. We will get to another one of them when the time comes. - Mike

ATSC 3.0 is on the air in Nashville. (unfortunately I don't have a receiver...) WUXP-30 (RF 21) and WNAB-58 (RF 30) have converted to 3.0. Their programs are being simulcast in ATSC 1.0 on WKRN-2, WTVF-5, and WZTV-17. (the latter is co-owned with the two ATSC 3.0 stations)

| WKRN-2 (RF27) | | WTVF-5 (RF36) | | WZTV-17 (RF20) | |
|---------------|---------|---------------|---------|----------------|------------|
| 2.1 | ABC | 5.1 | CBS | 17.1 | Fox |
| 2.2 | Bounce | 5.2 | NC5+ | 17.2 | TBD |
| 2.3 | Justice | 5.3 | Laff | 17.3 | Antenna TV |

Here's an RF spectrum plot for WZTV's old ATSC 1.0 signal:

And here's one for WUXP's ATSC 3.0. Both stations are broadcast from the same tower:

The Alaskan state-owned ARCS translators have converted to digital: (I'm making the rash assumption this list is all of them)

John Jefferson - 657 Marigold St - Madras OR

Has anyone reported long-haul loggings on 6/3? At 1719 PDT I noted jazz on 90.7 using rabbit ears (nothing on Terk antenna, which is aimed north-south and is currently plagued by noise from a house 1 1/2 blocks away). At 1720 noted NPR programming on 89.1 with a sponsor with a rooftop bar and a view of the Gulf of Mexico! At that point a religious station began mixing with NPR on 89.1, so checked 90.7 again. The announcer was a mumblor so couldn't make him out, but there was a spot, after a couple seconds of dead air, for "Jazz Countdown". I'm pretty sure it was supposed to be Cool Jazz Countdown, with the spot not queued up quite right. Anyway, back on 89.1 NPR was still breaking into the g station, which presently announced itself as Moody Radio. Per the Moody website, their only 89.1 facility is WMBU Forest, Mississippi!. That's right in line with Panama City, which has jazz on WKGC 90.7, including "Cool Jazz Countdown" in the preceding hour. And WFSW has NPR. An e-mail to them drew confirmation that their sponsor Bud and Alley has the rooftop bar and the view of the Gulf. Given that 89.1 & 90.7 were nicely in sync, that nails 3 2-hop loggings. Otherwise it wasn't much of an opening with MUF of 90.9 and duration of 15 minutes. Hopefully some other DXers were able to benefit from that interesting little opening.

Perseids

Next period of activity: July 17th, 2020 to August 26th, 2020

The Perseids are the most popular meteor shower as they peak on warm August nights as seen from the northern hemisphere. The Perseids are active from July 17 to August 24. They reach a strong maximum on August 12 or 13, depending on the year. Normal rates seen from rural locations range from 50-75 shower members per hour at maximum. The Perseids are particles released from comet 109P/Swift-Tuttle during its numerous returns to the inner solar system. They are called Perseids since the radiant (the area of the sky where the meteors seem to originate) is located near the prominent constellation of Perseus the hero when at maximum activity.

Next Peak - The Perseids will next peak on the Aug 11-12, 2020 night.
